Visitors Impressed

With Cass' Uniqueness

After completing a tour of Cass Tech, a visitor was asked his opinion of the school. He replied, "It's different in so many ways, I've never seen a school like it." At first, this may seem a rather benign and noncommittal reaction; but, in essence, it is true. There is something special, something truly unique, about Cass Technical High School.

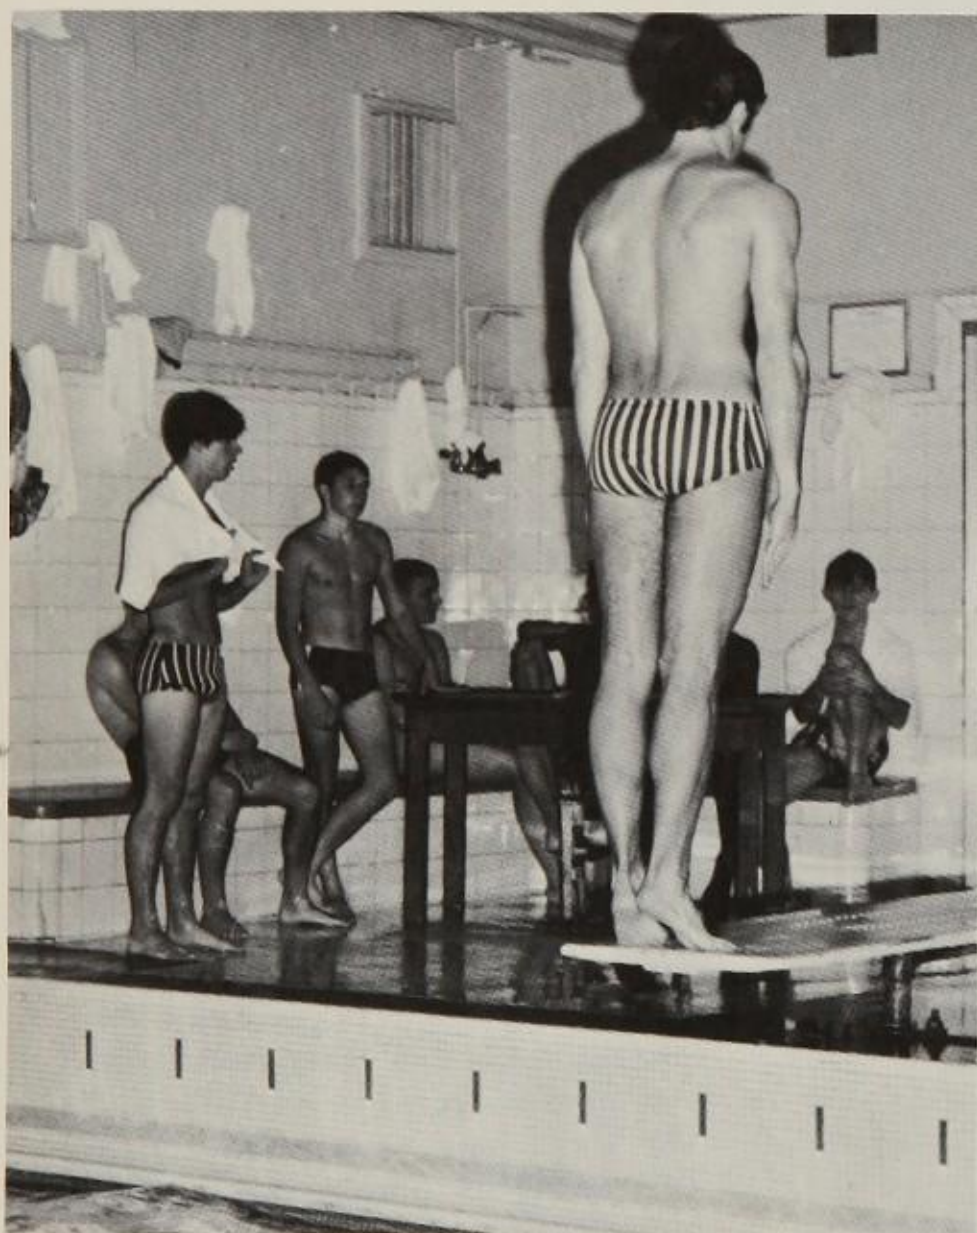

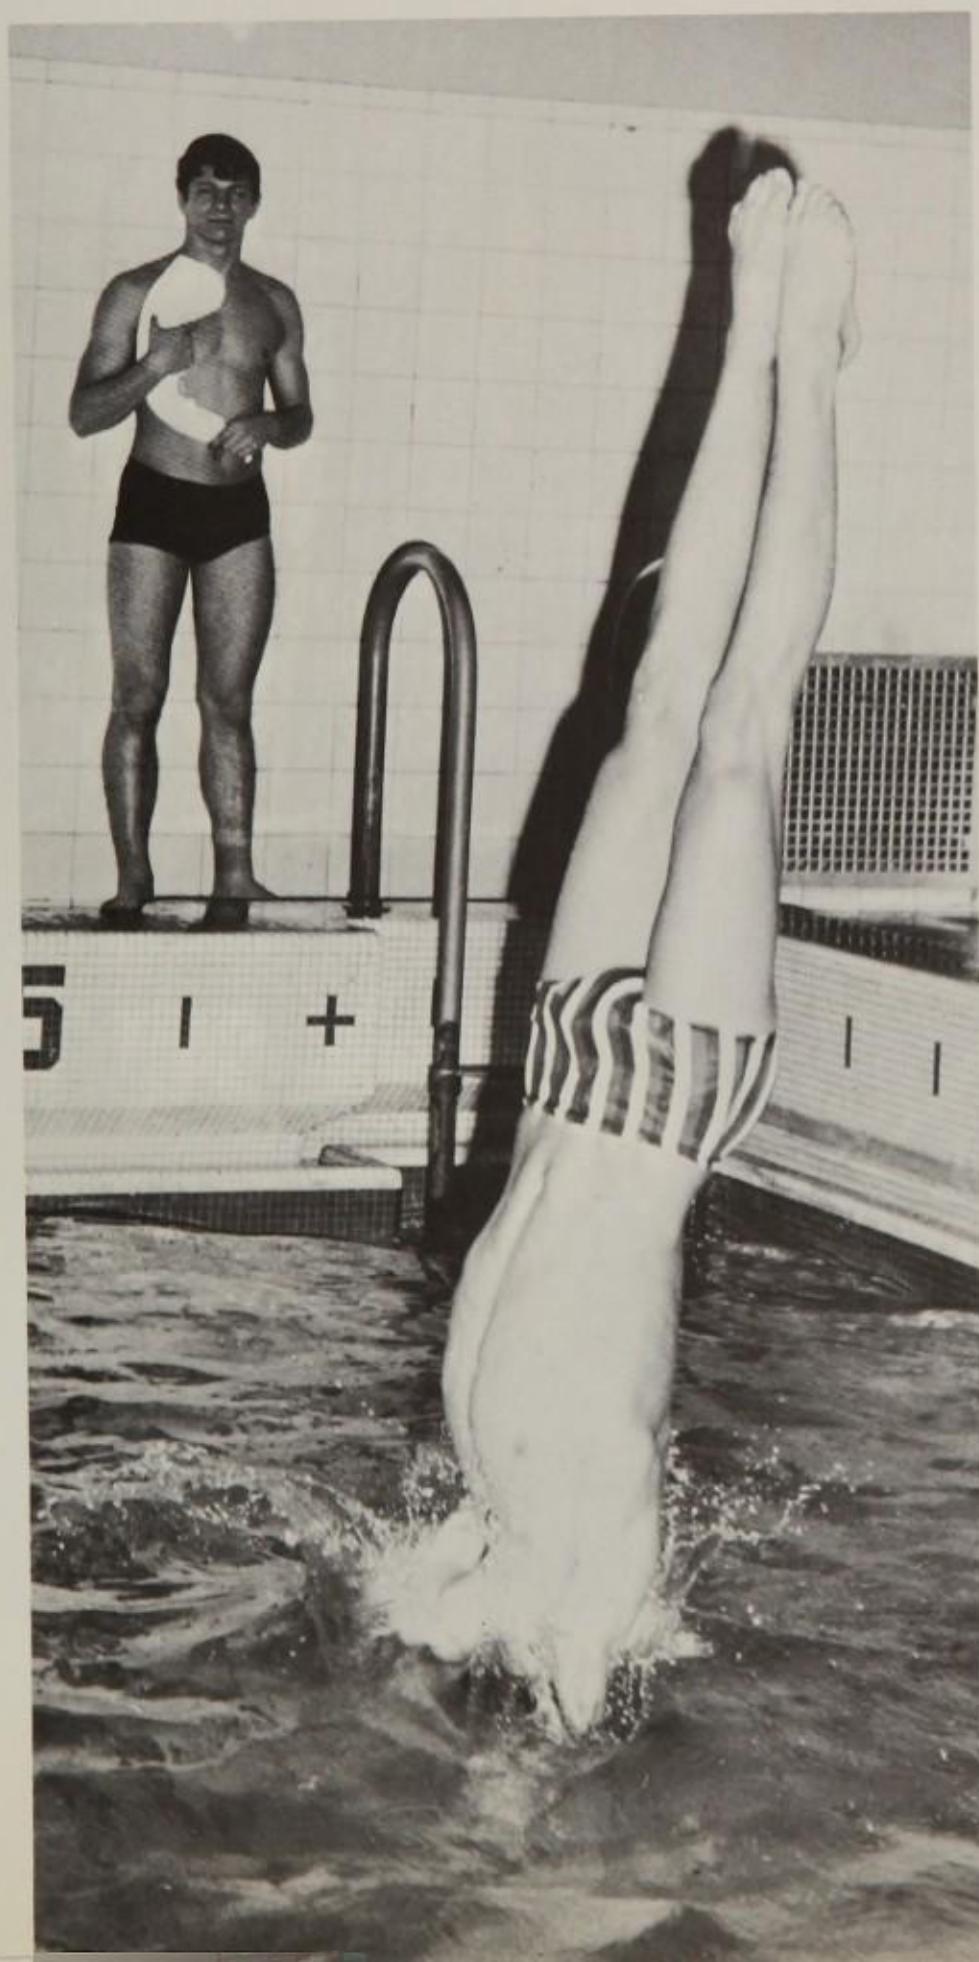

Overwhelming Size

Houses 6800 in

Architectural Wonder

The most obvious difference is the physical size and appearance of Cass. If our school's eight stories could somehow be "unstacked" they would sprawl over an area of eight city blocks. Its 150 classrooms serve approximately 4,800 students during the day, plus an additional 2,000 enrolled in evening classes. By no stretch of imagination can Cass be deemed a new building, either. Indeed, the aging facade testifies over fifty years of exposure to city soot and smoke. Inside the school, walls soar upward to meet lofty ceilings while marble foyers remind one of a bygone architectural era. The total effect (particularly upon Cass Tech freshmen) is one of awesome hugeness.

Determined Students

Diversify Cass Tech.

Upon entering, the diversity of the student body becomes immediately apparent. Cass students hail from every racial and ethnic group, and have interests in every field from art to auto mechanics. Some students, especially those who live in the suburbs, travel an hour and a half to come downtown to school. Their dedication is that Cass students want a specific education—and our school is the only place where they can get it.

Curriculum Provides Pupils with Extensive Backgrounds in Fields

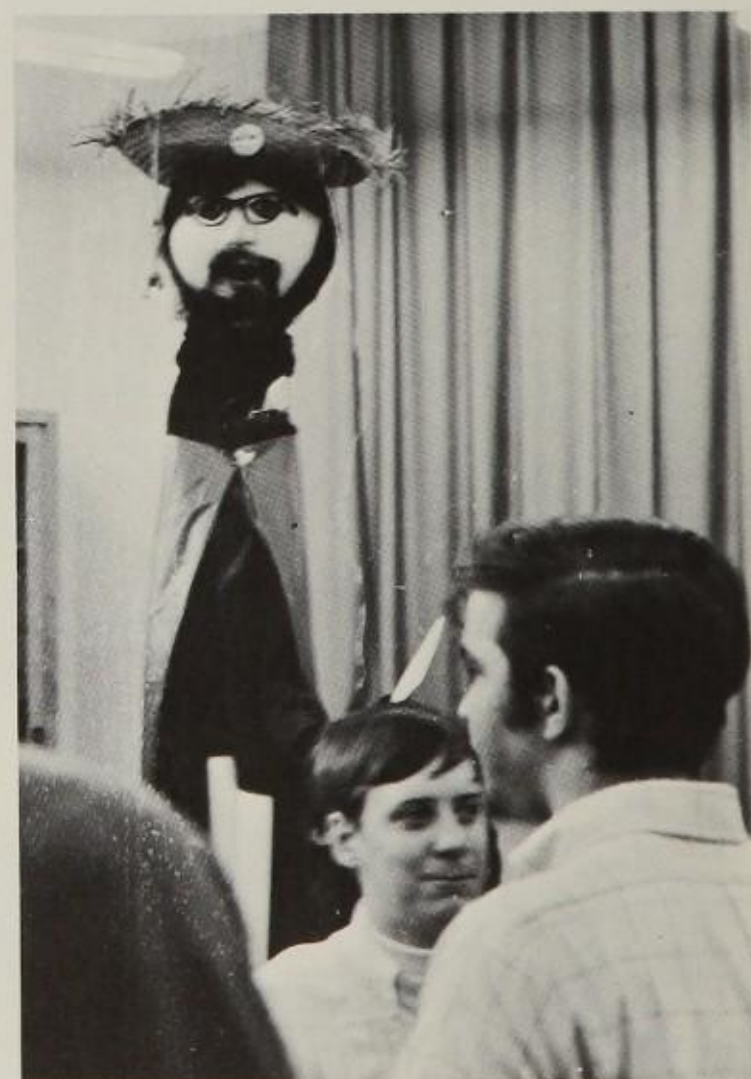

Due to the variance of students, Cass students gain an education from life. Students are gathered from all corners of the city, and thus are exposed to varied opinions, ideas, and cultures. Here, the rich man meets the poor man, the white man meets the black man and the Christian meets Jew. A Cass education gives every student an opportunity to widen his horizons and gain an understanding of the community as a whole.

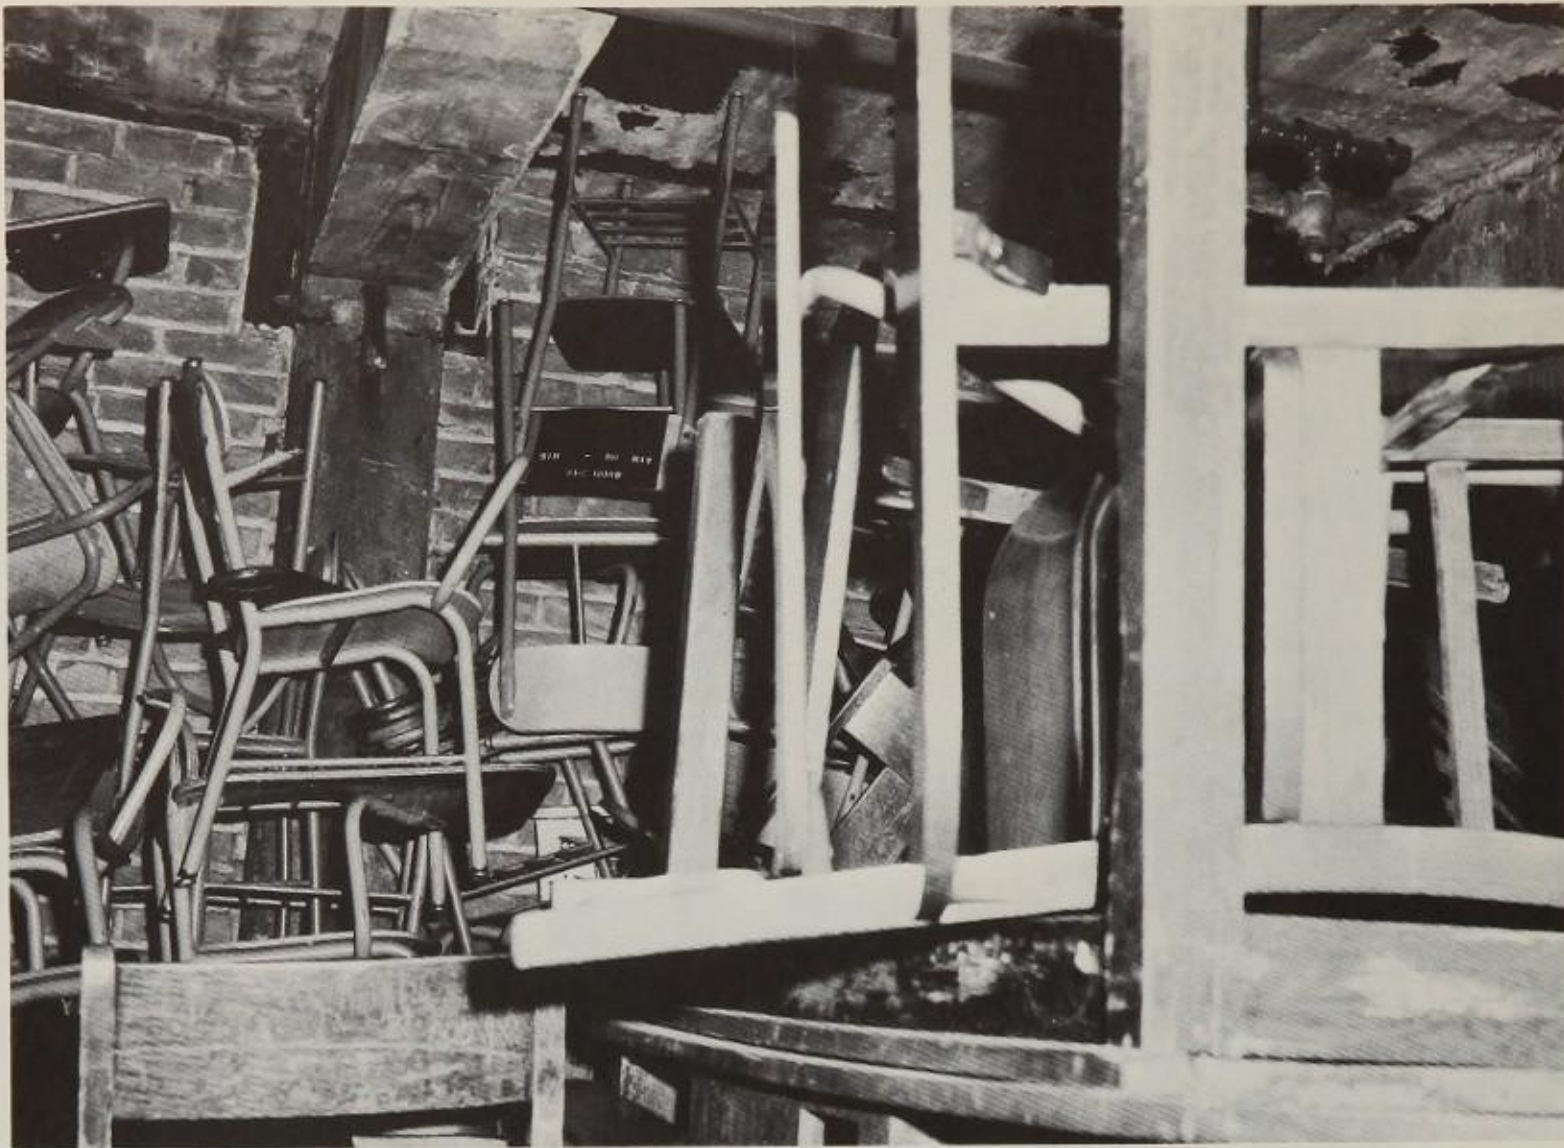

Outer Classroom Life Gives Students Insight

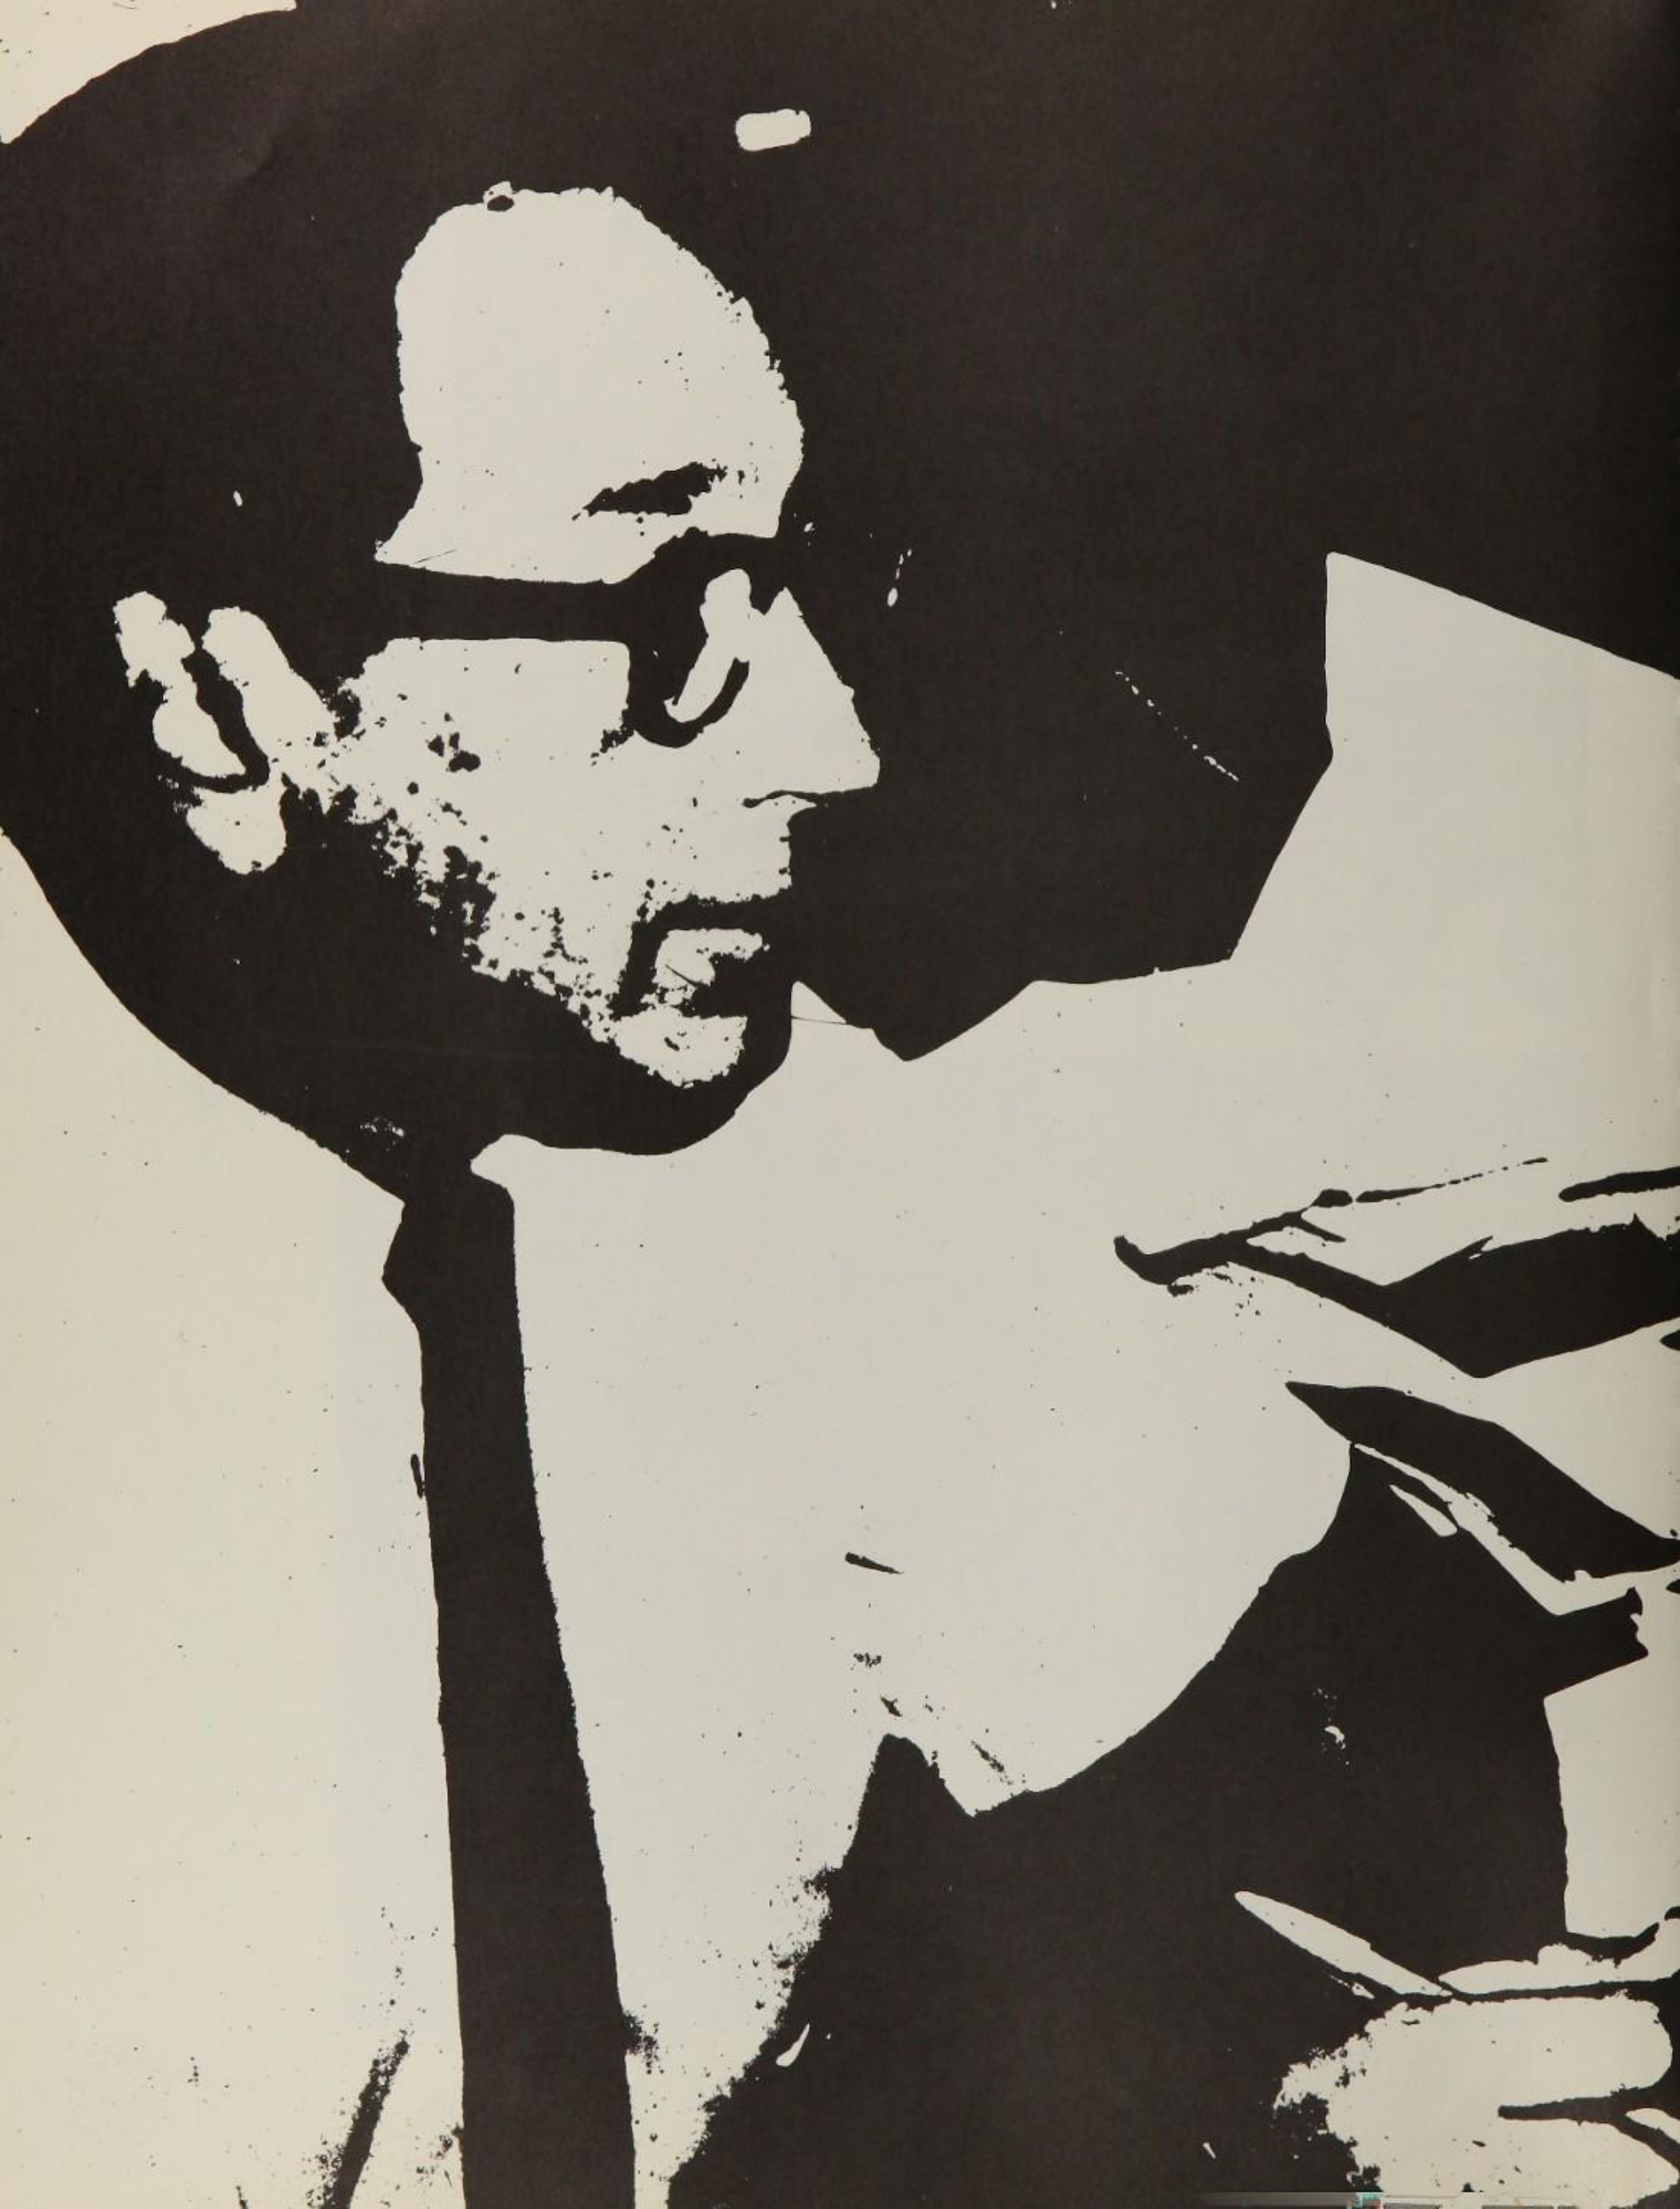

At Cass, twenty four curriculums handle as many different channels of instruction. Students plunge deeply into their areas of interest, and can gain more insight into their fields than would have been possible in a normal comprehensive high school. Here a student can take chemistry courses which are far more advanced than those ordinarily offered to a high school pupil. An art student can gain the experience designing an advertising campaign, while future home-makers learn the entire process of dressmaking — from the drafting of the pattern to the sewing of the hem.

Baumgartner Dreams of Future Cass Utopia

Principal Baumgartner has some innovating concepts for this institution. He would like to see more physical education facilities including a better gym and pool as well as the school's athletic field. He wants to have the auditorium modernized. Though he admits he is dreaming, Mr. Baumgartner would like to have a public address system and closed circuit television for broadcasting general student information.

Mr. Kendall never fails to inspire the students of Cass Tech when he speaks.

Devoted Counselors Steer Students Toward Success

Counseling has many problems and rewards, but all counselors agreed that the positive aspects outweighed the negative ones.

Absence excuses always provide amusement. "Out of town," was a favorite excuse among students. "Probably Dearborn," Mr. Lucci, in 617, mused.

Seeing one of his students attain success is the most rewarding part of the job. As one counselor said, "It gives me great satisfaction to know that I have helped at least one young person along to a useful and productive life."

Mr. Weiner listens intently to one of his counsulees.

Mrs. Evelyn Barth, new science counselor consults students after first cardmark.

Mrs. Dolan catches Mrs. Fletcher just in time to talk about scholarships and loans.

For Mrs. Weldon, accepting phone calls takes up a considerable amount of time.

Mrs. Fletcher Gets Hundreds into College

Every fall, Mrs. Anne Fletcher is caught in a deluge—a deluge not of water, but of college and scholarship applications. During the course of one school year, thousands of such forms pass through her able hands, each of which must be inscribed with the proper grades and then sent on to the student's curriculum head. Every graduating senior certainly owes a debt of thanks to this woman.

In Mrs. Miller lies the vital link to Cass' telephone system.

Mrs. Kypros, one of the main office's secretaries, offers a smiling greeting to a visitor.

Cassites grinning wait in line.

Frank Ferry can always be counted on to give students a lift — both with his elevator, and his smile.

Elevator Operators

Maintain Serenity

In a school the size of Cass, elevators are a necessity rather than a luxury. Although our operators sometimes seem to forget this fact, they usually serve Cassites efficiently, which is quite remarkable, considering the number of pushing, screaming students who file past them each day.

Thelma Timmons, elevator operator, shows her ever pleasant smile to the students every day.

Marian Borret is usually ready with a smile to brighten a student's day.

Blanche Scott operates her elevator with a lever and a cheery word.

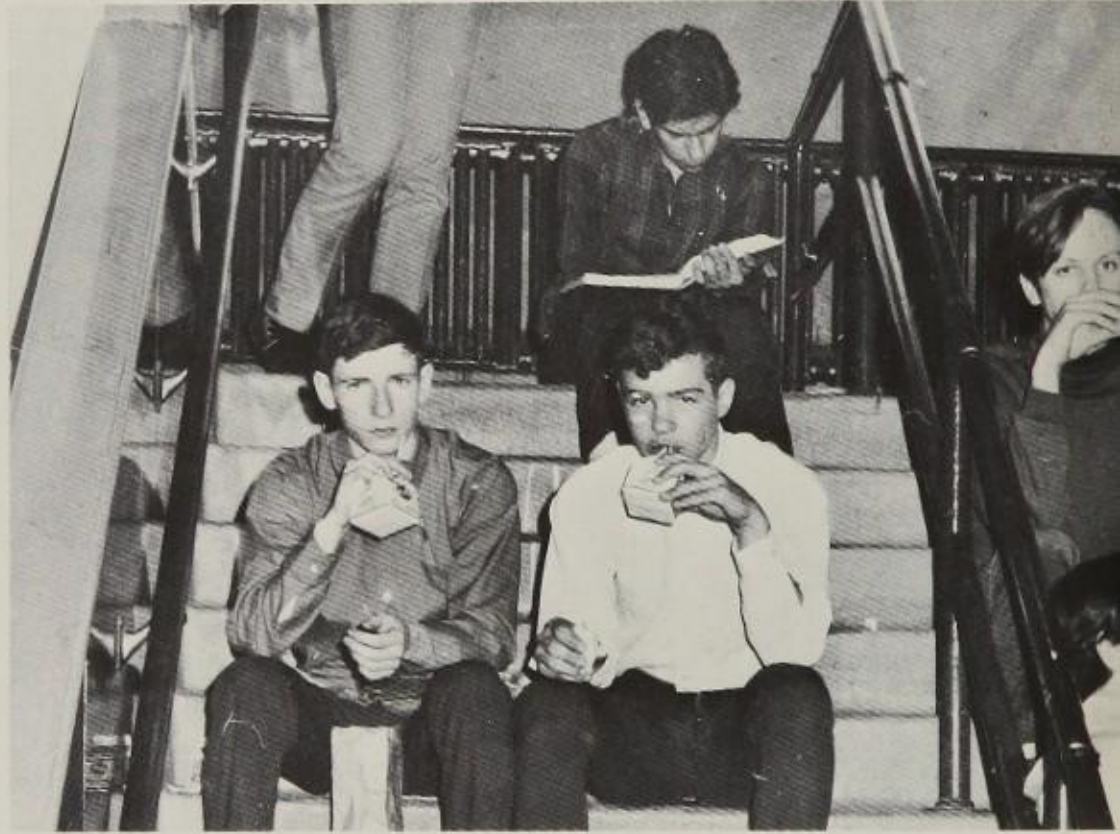

Mrs. Jones substitutes for Ray Byers and other members of the staff.

1800 Hungry Mouths

Fed Daily by 45 People

Mrs. Mazur, head cook of the lunchroom and her staff of forty-four have the mammoth job of preparing enough food for 1,500 students. Each day, for example, the eighteen oven, small bakery uses 170 pounds of flour to prepare 1,500 rolls and small cakes.

We have the softest stairs.

The preparation of luscious foods is an art for Mrs. Naomi Childress.

The Bookstore staff begins its day at 7:00 A.M. by reviewing the previous day's accounts. Then the eight hour grind begins, as an average of five hundred students are served and about one hundred dollars are accumulated. Throughout the entire process, amazingly enough, the staff always manages to remain very efficient and cheerful.

The Cass Tech maintenance staff is one of the most efficient and well organized in the city. No matter what the problem our janitors always have a quick solution in a matter of minutes.

Communication Skills

Aim of English Dep't.

The function of the English department is to train students how to communicate. In order to lead a full life, man must be able to understand the ideas of others as well as to communicate his own to the rest of the world. Through reading and practice in writing, it is hoped that students can gain these skills.

The Language lab helps students in the pronunciation of foreign languages.

Mrs. Aimee Kron and friend have a lively discussion about French semantics.

Languages Hold Key For Better Relations

This year, the Language Department is offering courses in Latin, French, German, Spanish and Russian, to whatever degree of proficiency the student wishes to pursue. New language labs and better facilities enable the students to learn more quickly and easily.

In the words of Miss Mary Fraser, head of the department, "With overseas travel at a new high, and with nations of the world so closely united physically by air, the learning of a second language is now a 'must'."

School Library Offers Great Book Collection

Every day, the library at Cass serves an average of 1,000 students. All Cass students have access to the library which contains 20,000 volumes and is open throughout the school day. In addition to having a great choice of the usual subjects, the library has an excellent collection of Afro-American literature.

If a student needs information on science, he may go to the science library which also contains pertinent information concerning home economics.

Math Rivals Sciences In New Techniques

Due to the many technical and scientific courses offered, it is necessary that we have a strong mathematics department. Use of team teaching gives teachers more time to create visual aids and to prepare interesting lectures.

Social Studies Dept

Students Choose Electives

Cass Tech's social studies department offers a wide range of courses for those students interested in broadening their knowledge of the history and people of the world. Afro- American History is a new course dealing with the black man's development in and contributions to America. History of Western Thought, a unique and popular course, is now being followed by a related class, History of Eastern Thought, which explores the history, heritage, ideology, and destiny of the Asians. A course in contemporary affairs is also offered to students who wish to learn more about the history which is being made today.

Oasis For Relaxation Found in Cass Tech

A good way to get a change of pace during the school day is to go to gym. Here a student can get his mind off studies and partially relieve the pressure of school life. In his health program, the student will learn to swim and feel comfortable in the water. The more advanced swimmer will have an opportunity to join the swim team. The same applies to a pupil who excels in any other sport. Charles Jenks, the head of the Physical Education Department says, "The students have every opportunity here at Cass to get an excellent background in physical education."

Academically Gifted Pupils Given Chance To Develop Talents

The Science and Arts Curriculum was established at Cass in 1957 for the benefit of academically gifted. Students are required to take accelerated courses in English, Social Studies and Mathematics. They must also take at least three classes from one of the other curriculums. Thus, S & A students gain a solid background in academic subjects, while they may also explore areas of individual interest. Due to this rigorous program, most S & A students have found it easy to adjust to the intense pressures of college.

Cass Exchange Student Shares His Thoughts

Folke Flam, our Swedish foreign exchange student, having spent a year here, would like to share his impressions of Cass with his fellow Cassites:

"It's all true: Cass Tech is an outstanding School with the most fantastic kids and teachers. However, I have to confess, I was rather confused the first week — what with the vastness of the school, unfamiliar faces everywhere, and the adjustment to a new school system. Thanks to the greatest and most wonderful person I have ever met, Mr. Segal, I gradually felt at home and acquired that special Cass spirit. This was my school, too. Like a typical Cassite, I skipped out of study halls and cheered at the football games.

I've tried to take a wide range of classes, mainly courses that are not offered in the Swedish school system and I've learned much. I know I will benefit from it in my further education. Of course, I've learned still more from the extremely open-minded, friendly, and marvelous kids at Cass and from people and experiences outside school."

PTH Offers Students

Wide Ranging Courses

The Poly-Tech Humanities curriculum is a newcomer to Cass, but it has proven a success in its short life. It is a very broad curriculum and students have a wide range of courses to choose from; each student chooses a program which best meets his own interests. PTH students must take twenty hours of credit in each of two curriculums at Cass, thus attaining at least forty hours of elective courses as well as the other normal college preparatory requirements. The curriculum is ideal for students who wish to supplement the courses in their primary interest area or who find their interests have changed.

Science Dep't. Grows

Student Demands Rise

The Chem-Bio student is easily recognized by the billowing, acid-eaten, white lab-coat which trails behind him as he runs down the corridor. Those who choose to follow the Chemical Biological curriculum lead hectic lives, for their course requirements are stiff. They must be truly dedicated to science, as there is little room for other electives. The academic diet of the average Chem-Bio student includes three courses in biology, two in physics, five or six in chemistry, plus the normal English, social studies, math and language courses required for all students.

Interesting Teachers Impresse Art Students

Mr. Berg welcomed into his department three new and inspiring teachers. Mrs. Taylor became the instructor of fashion illustration and pen and ink classes when Mrs. Edith Okel retired from a 30 year career in the field.

An accomplished painter herself, Mrs. Chover instructs watercolor and freehand drawing classes. Mr. Propokowitz teaches graphic design and art comp classes. Extracurricularly, he sponsors the Art Club.

Find Challenges Ahead

As usual, Cass students excelled in receiving scholarships from all parts of the country. This year Parsons School of Design, New York, will be receiving three ambitious art students; Christine Czary, Carol Leong, and Christine Duke. Stephanie Chivk and Cheryl Hanna will also go to New York this fall, on the much sought after scholarship to Pratt Institute.

Art Achievements Encourage Expression

Cass art students made an excellent showing at the annual Scholastic Art Awards Exhibition. Cecilia Vettraino and Lydia Daniels were nominated for the Hallmark final competition. Blue ribbons, gold keys, and certificates were well earned by Cass' entrants. In April the All-City Art Show opened at the Detroit Institute of Art and Cass was well represented.

PA Gives Students Experience in the Theater World

The Performing Arts department at Cass was conceived in the 1950's in order to give interested students training and background in the theater, radio and television fields. Students are required to develop skills in dance, speech, stagecraft, and academic subjects. Many people have found that their general poise and confidence have been improved greatly after participating in PA courses.

The curriculum offers a most unique opportunity for students and is the most complete department of its kind in the area. P.A. has, to be sure, provided continuing entertainment for all students.

Studio Art Theater Produces One-Acts

The Performing Arts Department has staged many varied productions this year. The season premiere was "The Miracle Worker." Margie Williams, the first 10B to play a lead role in many years portrayed the challenging role of Hellen Keller. The part of Annie Sullivan, a demanding role, was played by Patricia Rau, 11A.

Other productions included "Lysistrata," a controversial Greek play; "The Fantastiks;" a "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground;" and the One Acts. The season concluded with the spectacular musical "The King and I."

New PA Club Stirs Interest

In recent years, due to technological advancements, film making has become a dominant means of public entertainment. Realizing the undeniable importance and value of motion pictures, members of the Thespian Honor Society have sought to organize a group interested in exploring the limitless possibilities in film production. One of its founders, Richard Reetz, in giving his reason for first working with films said, "Movies serve to immortalize significant events in the course of life."

Offering interested individuals the opportunity to show their films, the film society sponsored a New Wave Film Festival. Here the creative works were shown and then discussed by the audience and producer. He hoped that with time this unique organization will flourish into a group effort rather than individual works brought together.

Theatre Entertains Teaches

In 1967, In White America was performed as one of the Performing Arts Department's productions. From this successful venture sprang the newly organized In White America Touring Theater Company, composed primarily of original cast members. Presently, the group performs before school, church, and civil organizations in the Great Metropolitan Detroit Area. The play presents a documented account of this Afro-American 200 year long struggle for freedom. In coupling the script, Martin B. Duberman employed actual historical testimony of blacks and whites involved in the composition of our American heritage.

Responsible for the production of such studio plays is the studio staff. The maintenance of the studio as well as the execution of productions there, depends upon the select group. Currently the studio is undergoing a trans-historical era. A need for change has arisen due to the growth of the department. In the past the studio has offered students to develop directing, acting, writing, and technical aspects of the theater. It is aspired by faculty directors that the studio might be the foundation for future reading poetry and dance theaters.

Richard Reetz, Brenda Foster, Sharon Watson, Jannifer Brown and Paul Short work on sets for the puppet theater to which they give their free time.

"Kid's Show" Entertains 75,000 Detroit Area Youths

Completing its fourth season of performances, the Children's Repertory Touring Theatre and Puppetry Company has thus far succeeded in entertaining 75,000 elementary school children in the Greater Metropolitan Detroit area.

The success of the company is due in great part to the joint and concentrated efforts of "Kid's Shows" components, directed by P.A. instructor Mr. Pierre J. Rener. This group of 23 students is responsible for 175 stage productions and 100 puppet shows in the 1968-69 season. Kid's Show travels daily, performing for the Greater Metro area elementary schools. Included in the repertory of stage productions are "The Elves and the Shoemaker," "The Emperor's Nightingale," "The Emperor's New Clothes," and "Princess and the Rose Colored Glasses". There are over twenty different puppet shows, all geared to the primary units.

The touring theatre is unique in the Detroit School system. While offering entertainment to young school children, it also serves to introduce the finer qualities of Cass, to potential enrollees.

CT Music Department

Rivals Conservatory

The Music Department at Cass is divided into two college preparatory curriculums: Vocational Music, for students who want music in depth, and Avocational Music, for those interested in music but wanting an emphasis in academics. The department provides an atmosphere which is stimulating to both students and faculty. According to Mr. Kertesz, Cass orchestral director, "One cannot truly appreciate Cass unless he has taught here or been a student here. Before coming to Cass, I had taught for twenty-five years in other public schools. I have been in European schools, also, and I can freely say nothing compares to Cass. It is like a music conservatory here."

Choral Organizations

Sing to City Praises

Cass' well known choral organizations include such groups as the Harp and Vocal Ensemble, Madrigals, and Choir A. These groups perform outside as well as inside school. Choir A has sung services at churches and Christmas carols downtown. Harp and Vocal has sung at many outside engagements. As a result of their last performance at a Kiwanis Club luncheon, they are being considered to represent Detroit at the Kiwanis convention in Florida this coming June.

The Cass Symphony Band was honored last summer by being invited to the International Association of Music Education Conference in Dijon, France. Through the efforts of many, they were able to fly there. The renowned Russian composers and I.A.M.E. president, Dimitri Kabalevsky was there to greet them. Upon the death of Rex Hall, March 31, 1969 the music field lost one of its most dedicated and able instructors. He was considered one of the four leading percussionists in the United States, and was well liked and highly respected by his colleagues. Mr. Rex Hall was a dear friend to everyone who knew him. Faculty and students alike will miss him deeply.

Music Dept. Students

Strive for Perfection

The Cass Music Department serves as an example of fine education. Visitors from all over the U.S. and from countries as far away as Australia, come to view our method of instruction. Cass has a distinct atmosphere which is best conveyed through Mr. Hall's famous adage: Timothy 10:16, "Remember, no one forced you to come here!" It is this devotedness that spurs students to perfection, and to come to before and after school rehearsals. They have also been known to traverse Cass' hallowed halls on Saturdays, Sundays, and during vacation, all in the name of "Music."

Talented Aspirants Many Outside Interests

Small groups offer unique experiences for talented musicians. They foster a different music awareness than larger groups do. It is for this and many other reasons that groups such as the Wood Wind Quintets and the Sax Quartets are formed. Gifted Cassites are able to display their talent through these. With the help of Mrs. Marilyn Jones, students are able to perform in programs. They are held during the school year, originating from either the school library, from 110, or the Detroit Art Institute's auditorium.

Admission to the Percussion Ensemble is also only through audition. Training for this group is obtained through Mr. Hall's percussion classes or previous private instruction.

Choirs and Madrigals Beautify Music Dept.

Playing a major role in the music department are the two choirs, A and B, and the Madrigal singing group. Choir A is "the top high school mixed choir anywhere in the state and perhaps in the country," according to director Charles Gleason. This year choir A will be participating in a concert series at Olivet College along with numerous other performances throughout the city. The Madrigal singers also perform, along with Mr. Gleason, for various organizations, and are frequently invited back.

Choir B is open to all curriculums and anyone who enjoys singing is free to join.

Great Female Singers Improve Cass Image

Cass Tech Harp and Vocal is an organization which is reknowned all over the world as perhaps the best girls' singing group in the United States. Harp & Vocal is directed by Miss Velma Froude, who is also the harp teacher and director of her girls' vocal class. Miss Froude herself is a very accomplished harpist and has won acclaims often for the wonderful performances given by Harp & Vocal. Often the group will be invited back to perform for an organization year after year and are always received very warmly. As Miss Froude put it, "If we don't receive a standing ovation we feel as if we have let ourselves down."

Large Scale Model Of Business World Operated in Cass

The Business Education curriculum at Cass offers a basic knowledge of the business world. In actuality the Business Education curriculum is divided into five smaller curriculums: Business Administration (a background for employment in business offices), Computer Programming (a foundation in applications of data processing), Data Processing (teaching extensive use of office machines), Secretarial (preparation for future secretaries), and Distributive Education (background in distribution of goods and services). Each division produces a unique and highly skilled student.

Stenotype Experiment

Rests Hope in Future

The groundwork has been laid for a new experimental business class at Cass. The two year program in stenotype, the first in Detroit, makes use of a device similar to the courtroom recorder. The new class is aimed at increasing students' shorthand rate as well as reducing dropouts and failures in shorthand classes.

As part of the Computer Programming curriculum, COBOL, Common Business Oriented Language, is being offered to 38 students. The course is instructed by Mrs. Ada Evans. Secretarial Curriculum Offers Good Courses

Cass offers girls rugged training in the secretarial curriculum. Along with three semesters of typing and two years of shorthand, they receive courses in accounting, transcript, dictation, office machines, and data processing. Though this curriculum has many challenges, the girls will be qualified secretaries upon graduating.

Domestic Curricula Gives Girls Training For Future Life

Home Economics Department at Cass Tech is unique in that it not only offers background knowledge for those interested in becoming housewives, but it also provides a jumping off point for future career women. Courses in home nursing, foods and home, and family living are offered for those students who might be interested in the health professions such as nursing and dietetics.

On the other hand, courses such as clothing, textiles, and home furnishings can be taken by interested students who are planning to be housewives or those who intend to become designers or interior decorators.

The Health and Welfare Pizza Sale once again attracted the attention of many students.

Pizza Sale Increases Dollars and Scholars

Cass Tech Health and Welfare classes that do not sponsor scholar scholarship programs and contrive ideas to finance those are indeed rare. Last November for example, many of the girls, most of them seniors, in the H&W department held a gigantic pizza sale to increase their already formidable amount of money in their scholarship funds.

Home Ec. Curriculum Prepares Technician

Health and Welfare balances devious subjects in order to produce a student who, on graduating, will be prepared for employment as a receptionist or clinical assistant. In order to produce such a student, subjects ranging from the sciences to business must be fed to the student. These students also have the option of continuing their education to be a nurse or medical technician. In our interdependent world, where the welfare of one is the welfare of all, such students cannot help but to be useful.

Home Ec. Curriculum Services Taste Buds

Foods and Nutrition is the part of Home Economics directed towards your taste buds. The preparation of nutritious as well as tasty food can only be taught by instruction in planning, selecting, purchasing, preparing, preserving, and serving, pleasing and healthful foods for a family or large group. Knowledge as well as experience is emphasized in the course, supplying students with a rich, functional background for food service and management.

These girls in an Advanced Foods class are busily at work preparing an angel food cake.

DDT Gives Solid Background to Pupils In Technical Fields

Although the three sub-departments of DDT differ in areas of concentration, all of the students receive a solid academic background as well as considerable experience in drafting, drawing, and related practical engineering work. Cass is noted for its fine pre-engineering students, as many of them win important scholarships and awards each year. One man was so impressed with a student's model that he offered to buy the plans.

DDT Beneficial to its Students' Aspirations

A DDT student graduates from this unique curriculum as ready to enter college as any other high school student in the country. In fact, he has a "head start" on most future engineers because of the added experience gained in DDT. Despite their deep concentration in engineering subjects and academics, students are able to take time off for classes such as art, typing, or music, which are not directly related to the DDT course of studies.

Superior Training To Electronics Students

Cass' Electronics' Department is comparable to many colleges specializing in this field. No other public high school in Detroit offers such detailed electronics courses as we do. Graduates of this curriculum are almost invariably approached for positions in well known firms all over the country. For example, some participate in the space race by getting jobs at NASA.

Changing Electronics

Aided by Teacher

Mr. Lawrence Applebaum, a teacher in the Electronics Department, is presently engaged in writing a new textbook which will be used on a national level in the near future.

Electronics is a fast growing field with many possibilities for the future. New concepts and methods are always developing and Cass Tech electrical graduates often return to tell of changes in the field.

Electrical Branch of High-wired Electronics

The Electronics curriculum is one of the largest of its kind in any United States high school. Its students take courses in the fundamentals of electronics such as schematic diagrams, repair of television sets and radios, and radio theory. Many of Cass Tech's Electronic graduates go on to work in communications and repair work.

Although the Electrical Department is often confused with Electronics, it deals in household wiring and industrial circuiting, Mr. Simons, the head of the department, is dedicated in keeping the Electrical up to its high standards.

Students Subjected to "Cooling" Curriculums

This year marks the graduation of the Refrigeration departments first group of students. These students are indeed fortunate in that upon graduation they are qualified to take jobs servicing refrigerators and air-conditioning units. This is a highly technical job, requiring a great deal of mechanical ability, mathematical skill and patience. Mr. Xerri, head of the Refrigeration Service department, hopes to install a sense of independence and responsibility in his students.

Modern Graphic Arts

Gives Pupils Future

When a student graduates from the Graphic Arts curriculum, he has several career choices. He may move into an apprenticeship, take a job as a press operator, or type setter, or he may continue his education on through college.

Due to the fact that the field of graphic arts is always expanding, Cass Tech is trying to keep its Graphic Arts Department in step with the times. Starting in the fall, students will be required to take a year of typing because of the advances in cold typography.

Night School Courses Aid Adults in Studies

The purpose of night school is to offer free education for adults who have not finished high school, and for those who wish to supplement their education. Cass Tech has been doing this for over half a century. It has the largest night school in the city. Over two thousand students are now enrolled in the night school, having a faculty of over 100. Cass not only offers highschool education completion courses, but is the only night school in the city offering refrigeration and electronics as vocational courses.

Cass serves adults from Detroit and surrounding areas. New courses this year include carpentry and plumbing. Principal Allen McPherson hopes that these two courses will be more than just supplementary and enable men to use this knowledge vocationally.

Miss Audrey Moore, secretary to night school keeps things running in the office.

Cass Tech's baseball team placed third in the city, winning five of their games this season. Coach Gembis thinks the boys had a good season despite their four losses.

Swim Team Victorious East-West Champions

Cass Tech's Boy's swim team has finally done it. After winning the East Side Championship for the second consecutive season this year, they went on to win the city championship. A trophy was presented to Cass Tech for the Swim Teams' outstanding performance.

The school they defeated to win the championship was Henry Ford High. One of their swimmers was disqualified, and with luck on their side, the Cass Tech Boys came through and won by one point.

Anyone who has attended a Cass Tech football or basketball game has surely noticed the fine entertainment provided by the majorettes. Led by Elaine Szawala, the ten girls march and twirl batons. The majorettes are sponsored by Mr. Arnoldi, who also heads the Music Department. The girls, however, march to music provided by a record player only at basketball games.

Our majorettes are experts with batons among other things.

Cheerleaders Possess Stamina, Pep, and Skill

Some of Cass Tech's peppiest, friendliest girls are on the girls' cheerteam. One member of the cheerteam, Chiquita Ross, 11A C&T, gave her ideas on what qualities a cheerleader should have. Chiquita said that a girl must have some acrobatic skills and be willing to try new things. She must be willing to stay after school for one or two hours at least three times a week, when the cheerteam practices over 30 different cheers. Being on the 'cheerteam is fun, but it is also a lot of work, and Chiquita adds "cheerleaders must be willing to accept criticism."

Tennis Teams Remain Undefeated This Year

The Girl's Tennis Team had remained undefeated for a number of consecutive seasons. Says one member of the team, "We hope to maintain our fine record." We hope so too!

Cass Tech's Boy's Tennis Team made a fine showing this season. They remained undefeated throughout the season. Unfortunately, they did not maintain their fine record when playing for the city championship, which they lost to Osborn.

'69' Graduating Class Throws Elegant Prom

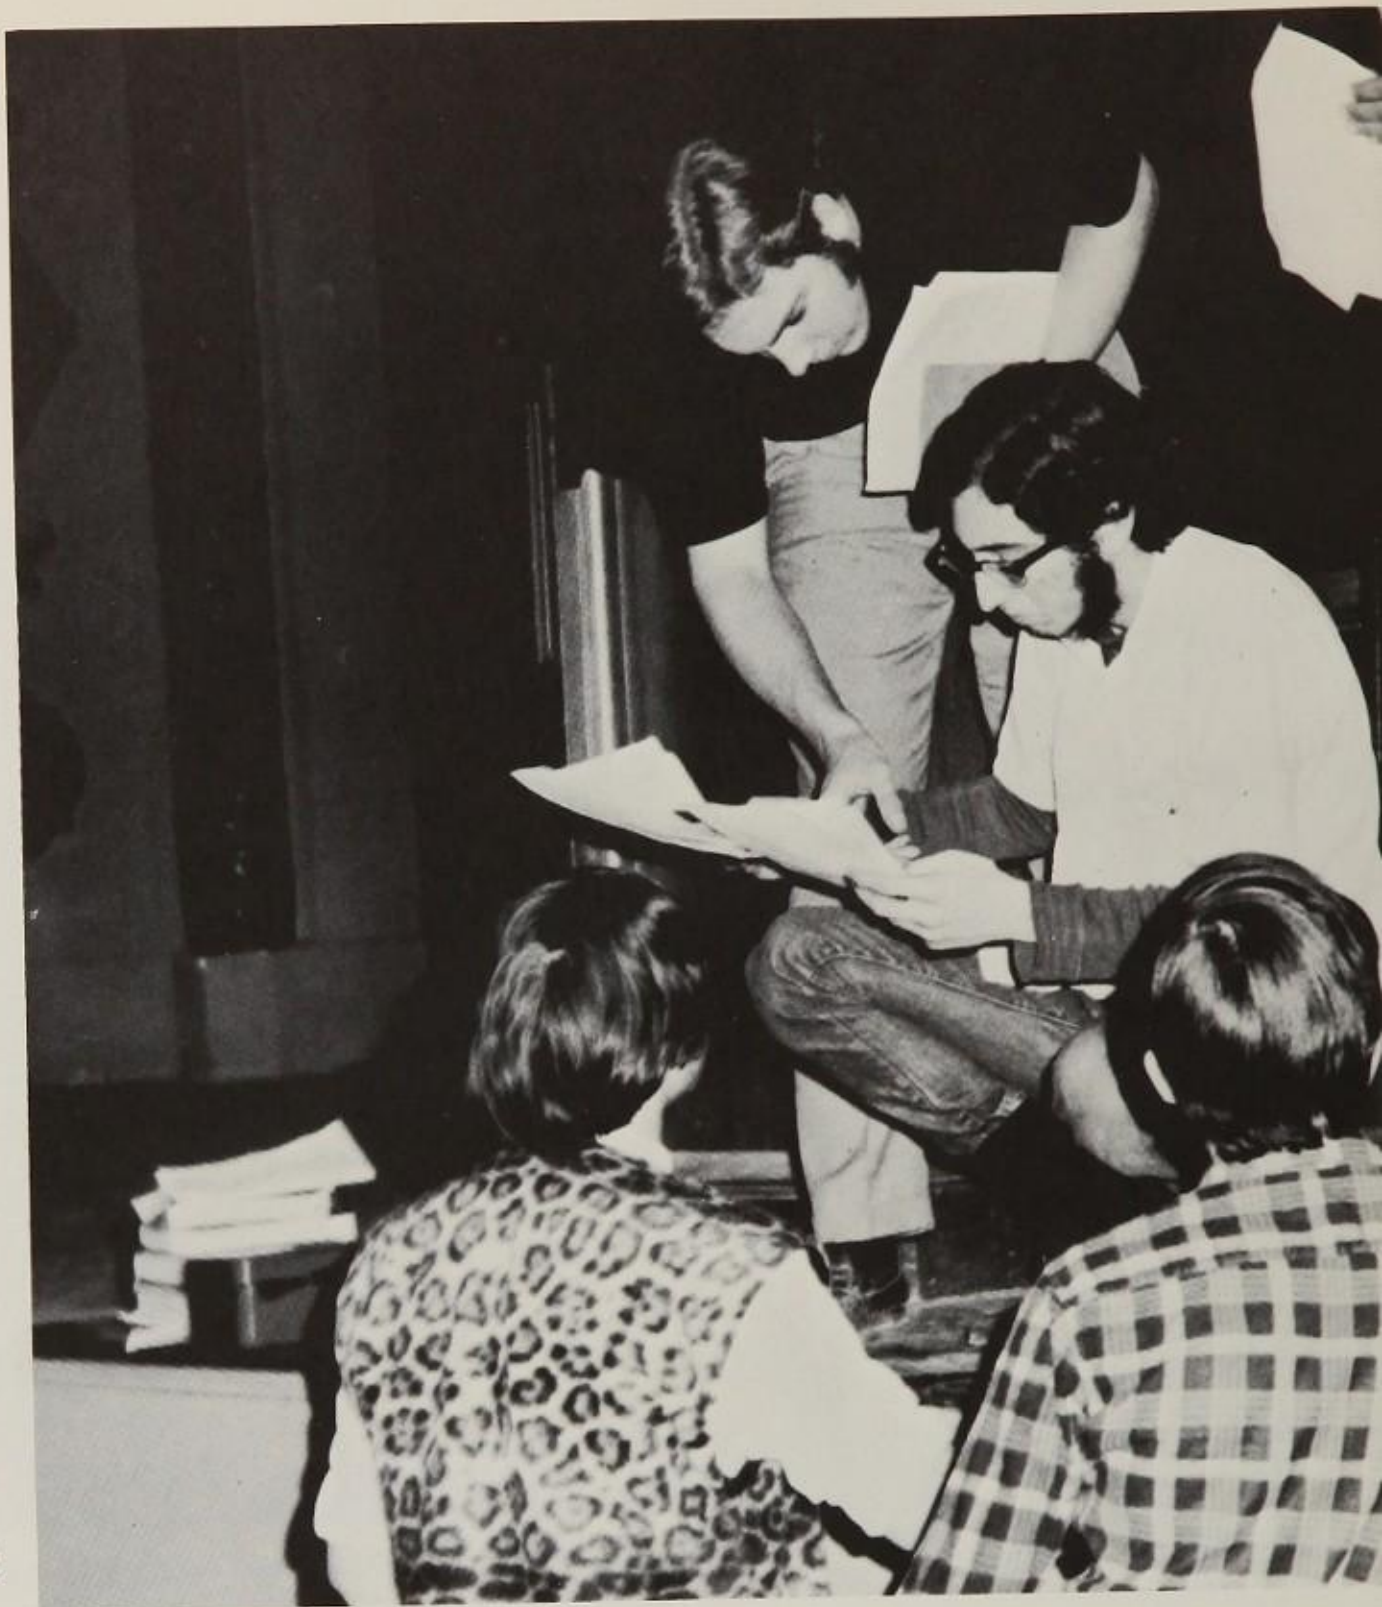

The June 1969 graduating class is an especially large one this year numbering almost one-thousand students. The class size has lead to several problems — one of which was finding a large enough place to hold the Senior Prom. However, our able class officers solved the problem — by renting both the upper and lower decks of the famed Roostertail.

Group Leads Students In Various Activities

The Student Council, always an integral part of student activities at Cass, undertook a myriad of problems, projects, and issues during the past year. Whether it was selling CT tee-shirts, planning the Homecoming Dance, or assisting the protest march on the Board of Education, the council sponsor, Mr. Edward Benz, who tries to make Cass a more interesting and rewarding experience for all its students.

Imaginative Magazine

Discourse, Cass's own fine arts magazine has improved greatly over the past year. Innovated by the sponsor Mrs. Meuckenheim and the editor Judith Reed, the Discourse staff energetically experimented with new modes of expression. The magazine now is no longer limited to essays, poems, short stories, and illustration. It has expanded into publishing music scores, architectural designs, and photography.

Technician States All Viewpoints of Students

"The purpose of the Cass Technician is to crusade for justice in the secondary school system." This is the opinion of Dennis Rosenblum, editor of the 1969 Technician. The student newspaper is published three times per semester. Through the paper, sponsored by Mr. Rodger Gow, the editor and a skilled staff of students strive not only to inform the student body of current events, but to give a voice to the demand for student rights.

Nearly faced with disaster in the form of an end to publications, the fearless journalism crew pulled through and kept the presses rolling. The near discontinuation of the Technician was due to a low amount of subscriptions by the student body. When asked of his goals at this point, the editor replied, "To break even!"

Behind Every Department A Hard Working Crew Lurks in the Shadows

World Friendship and Understanding Thru Students, A.F.S.' Goal

In a world in which international friction is the order of the day, it is refreshing to see a club which promotes international understanding. The American Field Service Club sponsors and helps finance an exchange program in which foreign students attend Cass for a year, and Cass students spend a summer abroad living with a family.

The year's overseas student is Folke Flam, who hails from Sweden. His ready smile and engaging sense of humor have won the hearts of the entire Cass student body.

Horizons Widen Thru Cass' Language Clubs

Many students wish to extend their language experience beyond the limited scope of the classroom. It is for their benefit that the language clubs have been developed. There are five such clubs at Cass: French, Spanish, Latin, German, and Russian.

Languages Hold Key For Better Relations

Activities vary from club to club, depending on the students' interests. Members of the French club, for example, have seen a film-strip on the life of Moliere and slides of architecture of the Renaissance. Through these types of activities students hope to gain some insight into the people whose languages they are learning to speak.

New Scientific Fields

The ever expanding domain of science is the format for the Physics Club at Cass. Speakers of note in such fields as nuclear fusion, lasars, and electric cars have lectured to Cass students thanks to the club. The club members are constantly exploring their chosen fields through the use of lectures and field trips.

Club Result of Black Recognition Movement

The Afro-American Club is a natural consequence of the Black man's search for identity. Members of the club hope to achieve a new awareness of their historical and cultural roots and are trying to stimulate educational and political activities. Many of their goals are being achieved through The Black Sun, the club's official publication.

Thinking Man's Sport

Starts Club Formation

Chess is and always has been the thinking man's sport. Thusly, the Chess Club of Cass is a small, dedicated band of thinkers whose sole purpose in the club is to increase their ability to formulate decisive moves in a winning game. Mr. Smith, the sponsor, is extremely proud of his devout group of growing thinkers.

Chess Club renders students a challenge.

Encouraging Talents

Point of Art Club

The Art Club's main responsibility concerns preparation for and selling at the Cass Tech Art Department's bi-annual art sale, at which paintings, prints, jewelry, ceramics, and sculpture can be had for bargain prices. Club members also take field trips to various art exhibits and art shows.

Community Service

Given by Key Club

Any boy who is interested in rendering community service and who desires the gratification of giving of oneself, is urged to join the Key Club. A junior version of the nationally famous Kiwanis Club, The Key Club's goals include development of social responsibility through schools and community service. Its members have served as "Big Brothers" to children of Burton Elementary school, have helped in the Cass Tech lunchroom breakfast project, and have sold Kiwanis peanuts for the poor children's fund.

Business Clubs Start Students with Careers

J.O.T.S., S.C.O.T.S., and D.E.C.A. are clubs for responsible students who intend to enter the business world. J.O.T.S. and S.C.O.T.S. deal mostly with part time student jobs. On March 6, 1969, 250 J.O.T.S. members attended an Office Education Association Leadership Conference in Ypsilanti. Organizations Help Others in Community

Members of the Caperettes Club have found that it is possible to have a good time while being of service to others. The club, which is composed of Home Economics girls, has given parties for underprivileged children and has served at the Senior Banquet. For fun, parties and outings are planned. Caperettes learn to give of themselves, but in doing so, they cultivate the qualities of responsibility and selflessness, which are so important for tomorrow's leaders.

Little "M.I.T." Appears Weekly: Math Club

Once every week, students have an opportunity to expand their mathematical knowledge at a meeting of the Math Club. Here, members exercise their skills and learn concepts that would not ordinarily be taught in the classroom. The club frequently has guest speakers and takes field trips to such places as I.B.M.

ROTC Gears Toward Military Strength

Keeping the ROTC working together is one of the main functions of the ROTC Officers' club. Officers meet together for the purpose of discussing current problems, disciplining members, and keeping communications between ROTC cadets open.

Sgt. Blount drills the team in preparation for the ALL-CITY Title.

Program Encourages Interest in Army

Guns seem to be on everybody's mind lately, and the Cass Tech ROTC Rifle Team is no exception. Fortunately, members of this team must be both accurate and safe in the handling of the twenty-two calibre rifle. Their skill has been proven again and again, as the "red cord", a sign that the wearer belongs to the best ROTC unit in the city, has been seen around Cass a great deal lately.

M. Sgt. Booker T. Sims reviews the rifle team at strict attention.

The hair you pluck will come back to haunt you. Before you tweeze again, remember this Quotation from one of the foremost medical authorities on the subject of human hair:

"Plucking out strong hairs should never be advised." Why not? Because the long term penalties for continued plucking can be so severe:

1. You may stimulate the growth of additional hairs around the one you pull out.

2. You may cause successive generations of hair from the abused follicle to grow coarser, longer, darker.

3. You may cause skin irritations, pits, scars.

4. You may make eventual permanent removal slower and costlier by pulling, the root and follicle out of place.

Such risks are needless now that Air-cooled Jet Stream Electrolysis is available to you. This is the first method of permanent hair removal with everything to commend it.

Air-cooled* Jet Stream is faster, more comfortable.

Electrolysis is the only medically approved method to remove hair permanently. Investigate this superior specialized service for the permanent improvement and confidence. You owe it to yourself to look your best.

Uniqueness of Cass Tech Accented by Achievement

Students are creative, working, growing, all unique. To show the uniqueness of a school we had to show the individualism of all the people in it. It has been said that it is impossible to fit individuals into a cast or mold. I have found it to be even more difficult to squeeze 4,800 of them into a mere 328 page journalistic volume. Because of this we have reflected in the 1969 TRIANGLE, only the essence of the whole of Cass.

The finished job in your hand is the product of a lot of hard work of a very few people. I really thank these people for helping and contributing to this book even though they might now regret it. The insane frustrations from lost copy, missing negatives, and non-co-operative persons are now being willfully abandoned by all of us.

Capturing the abstract idea of uniqueness has been a uniquely difficult job, but then Cass is a unique school.

Amy Culbert
